

Peter Kokkinos
Short CV

Veterans Affairs Medical Center, Cardiology Department, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ; George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences; and Georgetown University School of Medicine, Washington, DC, USA

Peter Kokkinos, PhD is the Director of the Human Performance and Cardiometabolic Health Unit at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Washington, DC, USA. He has over 30 years of experience in the area of Clinical Exercise Physiology. He has published extensively on the diagnostic, preventive and therapeutic aspects of cardiorespiratory fitness on chronic disease and health outcome. He is a Fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine and American Heart Association.

He is a Professor at Rutgers University, Department of Kinesiology and Health, and Adjunct Professor of Clinical Research and Leadership at the George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences of Medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine.

He has several awards including the Kotzias-Lasker Award, Hellenic Society of Physiology and the Steven N. Blair Award for Excellence in Physical Activity Research.